Can Evi is situated in the Mudanya region of Bursa, occupying approximately 10 acres of forested land to the north and a residential area consisting mainly of 2-storey houses constructed in the latter half of the 1900s, which have now been integrated into the urban landscape. The original dwelling on the property, which had previously served as accommodation for local families and had reached the end of its useful life, was removed and replaced with the current Can House. Throughout the construction process, the owner made great efforts to carefully preserve the landscaping of the previous structure, including all trees and plants on the premises, which are now integral to the overall landscape of Can Evi.

Ataköy House

Located in Muğla/Akyaka on the southwest coast of Turkey, the design of Ataköy House prioritized simplicity and harmonious coexistence with nature. The structure was designed using only essential elements and with a strategy that aimed to seamlessly integrate all architectural elements, taking into consideration various factors including earthquake risks. Despite the challenges, the design succeeded in maximizing natural light while minimizing the building's impact on the surrounding soil. Notably, the use of concrete as a visible and distinctive material not only achieved the desired forms but also enhanced the overall construction economy. These design features have earned Ataköy House a nomination for the prestigious 2022 Aga Khan Award for Architecture.

Airport Sheremetyevo, Terminal B

Winner of Russia's ARX 2007 Architecture Award in transportation buildings category, the project involves construction of the third terminal of Sheremetyevo Airport to serve as an international gateway to Moscow.

Used by more than 40 international airlines, as well as Russian airlines and those of other CIS countries, Sheremetyevo Airport currently has two domestic and international passenger terminals: Sheremetyevo-1 and Sheremetyevo-2, respectively, plus related airport facilities. The construction of the new terminal will increase passenger handling capacity without limiting the operations of the existing airport facilities, and create the required reserve capacity for the future reconstruction of Sheremetyevo-1 and Sheremetyevo-2 terminals.

Heathrow - Terminals 2, 3 and 5

Serving 30 million passengers a year, Heathrow Terminal 5 is the busiest of all BAA's terminals. Terminal 5 is intended to reinforce Heathrow's position as Europe's principal intercontinental hub.

The client, British Airports Authority (BAA) and the major tenant, British Airways, required a new terminal building and satellite on a site covering some 250 hectares -a complex capable of handling up to 36 million passengers a year. With over 50 WC facilities throughout the terminal, all needing to meet strict design, accessibility and durability criteria, a new approach to the washroom specification was required. T5's accessibility strategy demanded that all washroom facilities should not only meet but surpass the current Part M Regulations and Design Disabilities Act. Unfortunately there was no product in the market place that met the requirements. Not willing to accept the usual approach adopted of "tacking on" an unsightly and unhygienic back box to the rear of a standard WC pan, BAA Design approached VitrA U.K. Ltd. in order to meet the 750 mm projection.

Berlin-Schönefeld Airport

The international Berlin-Schönefeld Airport is currently one of Berlin's three airports. The facility is scheduled to be transformed into Berlin-Brandenburg International Airport in 2011, when the other two airports will close and BBI will remain as the German capital's single airport with an up to 50 million passenger capacity. Founded in 1934, the historic Berlin-Schönefeld is popular with vacationers, and is often referred to as 'The Holiday Airport' due to its international charter flight load.

VitrA Ararat Ivory Porcelain tiles were chosen to cover the check-in areas of the recently renovated Terminal D of Berlin-Schönefeld. A total of 8,000 m<sup>2</sup> gleaming Ararat Ivory cheerfully greets the passengers as they make their way to and from sunny destinations. Manufactured to endure the challenges of high traffic areas, stylish VitrA porcelain tiles remain a favorite of international projects across the globe.

Paveletskaya Plaza

Paveletskaya Plaza was originally designed to be an underground shopping center, offering a distinct advantage of direct access to the Paveletskaya Metro. This shopping mall is composed of 190 stores, a gastronomic area that serves cuisine from various countries, and aims to create a cultural mosaic. Notably, a landscape park is located on the ground floor, setting it apart from other shopping centers.

Apex Project bureau developed the project based on the concept of 5+design studio and landscape design, which will revitalize the neglected train station area that has been abandoned for decades. The development site, which takes on the shape of an irregular trapezium, will become a new oasis within the Garden Ring, featuring lantern-framed entrances that lead to the underground section, small architectural structures, and a rooftop park.

Constructed between 1916 and 1917 under the direction of renowned architect Vedat Tek, the Moda Pier has undergone various transformations since its establishment, serving initially as a pier, then as the English Yacht Club, and later reverting back to a pier. This single-story edifice has borne witness to significant events predating the establishment of the Republic, but regrettably fell into disrepair and was left to its fate. However, through the joint efforts of Istanbul Municipality and NOVOS Architects, the historic Moda Pier, an emblematic symbol of Kadıköy, has been restored to its former glory and given a new lease on life.

Istanbul TV&Radio Tower

The Istanbul TV and Radio Tower was constructed to embody its surrounding environment, with the building's form reflecting the topography of the area. The tower's design takes into account various factors, including the prevailing wind direction, focal points of the view, and the connection between communication systems and the primary carrier. Rather than being integrated into the surrounding urban fabric, the tower stands independently without a designated front or back. Its shape is adapted to the landscape, utilizing an axis of symmetry to achieve a deformed appearance. Notably, the side facing Asia differs from the side facing Europe. The project was awarded the 'Best Tall Non-Building 2022' prize by the Chicago Council on Tall Building and Urban Habitat - CTBUH.
